Intentional / Effectual Difference (I/E D)

- would establishing the I/E difference serve as the point of departure? ("what is the ideal/optimal outcome of my ideology, and how does this ideology's parameters get in its own way?") (following question: "what set of (ideological) parameters would prove more conducive to the desired outcome, and how can an ideology be reverse-engineered based on these parameters?")

while the subjective impetus is best activated by the notion of unconstrained growth / ~~in its~~ progress in its desired direction (?), there exist boundaries to the lengths which can be gone to attain said desire. Thus, in order to activate the impetus, the subjective system (?) must ~~operate~~ operate under some illusion/simulacrum of unconstraint, otherwise the impetus will eventually lose steam in light of the boundaries-made-clear.

parameters and perimeters

(perimeters apply to the boundaries of peiron, whereas parameters apply to striations of value within peiron)

(In this case, "parameters" are slightly less abstract than "striations", the former being more conducive to ideological baggage and the latter being more conducive to non-ideological operation)
